SINGULAR SUICIDE.

Miserable Ending of a Solitary Life by Poison.

Dedication of the Holy Bell—Highwaymen at Work.

ASix Dollar Law Suit—The Railroad—General Local.

By His Own Hand.

Francis Paul, a barber, killed himself by poison on Sunday evening about 5 o'clock in his room in the rear of his shop on the south side of the Plaza.

About 7 o'clock last evening a young son of Joe Miller went to Paul's room and was frightened by seeing the barber's body lying on the floor, stiff in death. Justice of the Peace Romulo Ulibarri was at once notified and immediately summoned as a coroner's jury: Trinidad Sosa, Epifanio Gallegos, Theo. Rutenbeck, Theo. Koch, J. B. Klattenhoff and Justus Gruner who rendered a verdict of "Death from an overdose of morphine."

The body was taken to an undertaker for preparation for burial. The deceased was a German of about forty-five years of age, unmarried and living alone. His life was solitary and devoid of future. He was in the habit of going on protracted sprees and while recovering from the effect of excesses would be in a despondent and suicidal mood. Pauls had on several occasions threatened self murder, and when on Saturday he sent to the Midland Pharmacy for morphine it was refused him. The deceased has lived in Las Vegas for about four years and had but few friends and acquaintances. The cause for the act was loneliness and intemperance. The victim's constitution was undermined by his habits of life and his mind gave way to the strain.

The Holy Bell.

A very large concourse of people, numbering very nearly a thousand at a low estimate, gathered yesterday afternoon to witness the interesting ceremonies of consecrating the new Catholic bell. The archbishop was not able to be present, but sent a communication appointing Father Antonio to be his representative. The bell, which is really a fine one, was decked with ribbons and flowers, and hung suspended at the foot of the eastern tower, ready on the conclusion of the ceremonies to be elevated into its place. Father Antonio, in gorgeous robes, and Father Conderit in plainer ones, officiated assisted by five little boys also in robes. One of these held the crucifix, one the censor, one the prayer book, and one the incense. The prayers were in Latin, and principally read by Father Antonio, though at one place in the service he and Father Conderit engaged in responsive intonations. The ceremonial consisted in the application of water and in burning incense under the bell. The ten sponsors each gave the bell a tap by pulling on a rope made of ribbon and attached to the clapper. The order in which this was done, was Mrs. O'Bryan and Mr. Manzanares, Mrs. Sampson and Mr. Tetard, Mr. and Mrs. Romero, Mr. and Mrs. George Chavez, Mrs. Desmairies and Prof. Boffa. When this had been finished, Father Antonio announced that the bell had now been consecrated under the invocation to the Blessed Virgin Mary. At once the New Mexico brass band struck up Elsie quickstep, which they played in a very animated and inspiring manner. Judge Blanchard then took charge of the occasion and by skillful and well-timed directions secured the raising of the bell to its proper place without accident or danger. The band again played "Virgie Lee" and "First Love" polkas, and the crowd dispersed, feeling that another victory had been scored for Las Vegas, as we now have the largest bell as well as the largest organ in the territory.

Attempted Holdup.

On Saturday night M. J. Lassar, of New York city, was returning to the Plaza hotel from Bartlett's jewelry store. When near the corner of Judge Blanchard's place on the Plaza, three unknown men made a dash upon him, demanding that he hold up his hands. Fortunately Frank Robinson was with him, and instead of throwing up their hands, they drew their pistols. At this the would-be robbers turned and fled. Mr. Lassar is a diamond merchant, and had been to Bartlett's for the purpose of negotiating a sale. He had at the time of the attack $50,000 worth of these jewels in his possession. Whether the attack was made by parties aware of this fact, or whether they merely stumbled upon the case, cannot now be determined. It was a fortunate escape for Mr. Lassar anyway.

Thrown From His Horse.

About 4 o'clock this afternoon a Mexican named Antonio, herder for J. S. Ketterman, was thrown from his horse and nearly killed. He was far gone under the influence of liquor, and the horse becoming frightened, dashed up Bridge street and over on Zion's hill. Just at the point of the triangle formed by Main and Blanchard streets Antonio was flung against the tall board fence, falling from the fence to the ground and inflicting on himself several cuts both in the face and on the right temple, besides internal injuries more or less serious. Alex Kelly and Manuel Sosaya picked him up for dead and carried him into a room belonging to the latter. Antonio soon came to himself and doubtless will recover the mishap. When taken to the room a stone, nearly as large as a hickory nut, was found imbedded into the flesh of his temple.

A Teapot Cyclone.

Two lawyers and half a dozen obtuse witnesses made things entertaining for the fifty spectators gathered in Justice Ulibarri's office this morning. The case involved the sum of $6 and was brought in the shape of an attachment, for debt, upon the household goods of D. Weidenbaum and wife by Max Lorge. The attorneys on both sides labored manfully and watched each other's moves with unflinching eyes. Fearing that his honor might be unable to agree upon a verdict a jury was called and since 10 o'clock this morning up to 2 p. m. the battle still went on.

Yesterday's Weather.

Yesterday's bright, pleasant weather brought everybody out and the streets were filled with promenaders. The churches were well attended in the morning and the great bell dedication was the attraction for the afternoon. The lively stables were all well patronized, everything on wheels being out.

WATERING PLACE NOTES.

Items Concerning the Las Vegas Hot Springs.

J. W. Farnsworth and wife returned to Topeka today.

James McGonigle, the Montezuma hotel contractor, left for Topeka yesterday.

The many friends of Conductor Posey are glad to know that Richard is almost himself again.

W. H. Bradley and wife, who have been at the Hot Springs so often and who like the place better with every visit, return home today.

A Chicago lady writes a friend here that Clark Frost has been offered the management of the Montezuma and will take it; history still repeats itself.

Work on the Montezuma is being rapidly pushed and the alterations of the original plans and specifications will add to the symmetry of the structure.

The grounds are being placed in nice condition. All vegetation is thriving. The lawns are green and tennis will soon be provided as an additional amusement for the guests.

The half burnt Montezuma hotel is beginning to look like itself again. Carpenters are working busily away at the structure, whose completion is now a matter of not much time.

The pool tournament between Messrs. Blake and Sparrow last Saturday night was an interesting affair, and was witnessed by a number of male and female guests. Mr. Blake won the stakes.

The keeper of our esteemed friend, Vinegar Bitters, promises to back him into a cattle car and remove him as soon as he can be found in a proper state of sobriety for shipping purposes.

Miss Nina Page, daughter of old Uncle Billy Page, Esq. will leave the Springs shortly. Miss Page is an accomplished and very pleasant young lady and will have many friends at the resort who will miss her bright particular smile.

There were quite a number of severely sick people here during April, but nearly all of them are well now and the doctors begin to look gloomy. It has a very depressing effect upon a doctor to see his last patient recovering rapidly.

As soon as the water subsides sufficiently, an organized effort will be made to recover the body of Mr. Sweet. It is thought the body will be found above Robert's dam, covered now perhaps by ten or fifteen feet of sediment.

Rumor has it that a horse car track will be built from the depot bridge to the Montezuma, and that a car will run between these points every fifteen minutes; this arrangement annihilates the difficulty of approaching "the castle on the hill."

There are a large number of invalids now being benefited by the Hot Springs and the management is receiving splendid endorsement. During the past two months about 1,500 transients have roomed at the Hot Springs hotel. At present the hotel is well filled and the cottages and bath house rooms are all occupied.

On account of the wagon roads being washed out Mr. Richard Dunn, who has the contract for the timber for the new Montezuma hotel, has been unable to haul his product to the delivery point since the big rain. In consequence of this temporary inconvenience the contractor has been compelled to gather in material from any source.

Among the late arrivals at the Hot Springs hotels are F. N. Merriam, a prominent Boston leather merchant registering from Lexington, Mass.; J. W. Farnsworth and wife, of Topeka, Kan.; J. H. Othwalte, Cleveland, Ohio, and S. A. Baxter and son, of Lima, Ohio. Mrs. C. G. Gove and Miss Frances Gove are just back from Honolulu. They are old patrons of the springs and will remain for some time.

The drive from Las Vegas to the Hot Springs, needs repairing in many places. A broken water main has washed out a gully near the railroad hospital, making a dangerous spot for any but an experienced driver. The bridge at the Plaza del Llano is in bad shape and requires immediate attention.

There is a good deal of water in the river at the Hot Springs crossing and occupants of a low built buggy or phaeton will wet their feet in fording. The grade past Crumney's European hotel has been greatly improved and is now in splendid condition.

LOCALITIES.

Telephone 72 has been put into the cigar store of A. B. Miner on Sixth street.

Eleanor A. Hudson has transferred sundry real estate to J. A. Liddell. Consideration, $5,500.

The building lately occupied by the Brewer saloon on Sixth street is receiving a thorough painting within and without.

Rev. Dr. Brooks, who formerly had charge of the seminary in this city, died suddenly at La Veta, Colorado, last Thursday.

Mrs. Paulen, daughter of Mrs. Young, on Saturday was made the glad mother of a twelve pound boy. Dr. Skipwith attended.

At Barber has taken his trotting horse to Albuquerque to prepare for the fair and to take anything that comes along in the meantime.

The board of county commissioners met in their room at the court house today, transacted routine work, listened to various petitions and paid off the police force.

The insurance companies have adjusted the loss upon the R. G. McDonald building on Sixth street, occupied by Wyman's saloon. They allowed him $1,146.38.

It was reported on the streets this morning that Joe Gray, the butcher, was dead. There was no foundation for the rumor. In fact Joe, who has been ailing, is better than ever.

John Garth is looked for tomorrow with a lot of fine Holstein cows. Five or six have already been spoken for, among which Joseph Oyerhuls will have one and J. H. Hunter one.

The pupils of the primary department of the Las Vegas Academy will give an entertainment on Monday evening. All friends of the academy are cordially invited to be present at the exercises. Admission twenty-five cents.

Five car loads of cattle came in this morning from the east. Four of them will pass on to the south and but one will remain here on sale. Among these are eight thoroughbred Hereford bulls, consigned to J. C. Leary from A. D. Hudnall, West Las Animas, Colorado.

The probate court was in session today and several legal entries were proved upon. A warrant deed was recorded, transferring THE GAZETTE building and lot on Bridge street from Jefferson Reynolds and wife to Pierce, Hardy & Warner. Consideration, $2,500.

Resolutions of condolence on the sad death of Samuel J. Sweet have been adopted by the First Baptist church of this city. The tribute is sympathetic and full of feeling. THE GAZETTE greatly regrets that owing to the lateness of the arrival of the copy it is unable to publish the same today.
